Course Description

We will consider the very notion of “identity” from several theoretical and practical perspectives. We will examine the underlying tensions of identity and its politics in our personal lives and in different societies. We will then explore several prominent and emerging identities in the Middle East.

Course Goals

Explore the complexity and relevance of “identity” as a key element of politics at the personal and public level; become acquainted with the nature and dynamics of identity politics in the Middle East.
Grading

100% Final paper

Lecturer Office Hours

Meetings will be held as needed. I am available on Whatsapp at my phone number: 0544649500 as well as at my gmail address: origoldberg@gmail.com