The Adelson School of Entrepreneurship was established in light of the growing demand for graduates with academic education in the fields of entrepreneurship and innovation and based on the unprecedented success of the Zell Entrepreneurship Program since its inception, over 20 years ago.

The Double Major degree is intended for students who wish to acquire higher education in the field of Entrepreneurship, alongside practical experience in developing entrepreneurial projects. We strive to train the future generation of entrepreneurs and leaders of innovation.

The program's curriculum is rigorous and demanding and requires a great deal of commitment, hard work and a high level of motivation. Many of the program's courses include practical hands-on projects in which the students apply the tools they acquire, in practice, both individual and team-based.
