

Avihai Lifschitz is a senior researcher at the Aaron Institute for Economic Policy and a lecturer at the Tiomkin School of Economics, Interdisciplinary Center Herzliya (IDC). His research and teaching expertise are macro and labor economics, and in particular labor market policies, productivity and the Israeli economy. Prior to joining IDC he taught at Tel Aviv University and worked as a development lead and program manager, specializing in security and small business software. He holds a PhD and MA in economics from Tel Aviv University and a BSc in electrical engineering from the Technion, Israel Institute of Technology.