

Mariam Kabaha

Attorney Mariam Kabaha was appointed in 2016 as National Commissioner for Equal Employment Opportunities at the Ministry of Labor, Social Affairs and Social Services.

The Commission for Equal Employment Opportunities is tasked with eliminating discrimination and fostering equality in the Israeli labor market.

The roles of The Commissioner for Equal Employment Opportunities include educational and professional activity aiming to promote, and raise awareness to, the rights of workers. In addition, the Commissioner is responsible for civil enforcement of the laws regarding equality in the workplace. The commission aids the processing of individuals' complaints against employers, and when necessary even files a civil lawsuit on behalf of the individual in the labor court.

Born in Nazareth, Mrs. Kabaha currently resides in Haifa with her husband Dr. Ihab Kabaha and their two children.

She graduated with a L.L.B degree from Haifa University's Faculty of Law.

From 2010-2016, Attorney Kabaha had served as the Equal Employment Opportunities Commission's Regional Commissioner for the district of Haifa and the North.

Between 1999-2010 she was a partner at a private firm specializing in civil law.
