

International Summer Internship Program in Israeli Politics

The Institute for Liberty and Responsibility (LibRes) at Reichman University invites applications for its 2025 Summer Internship Program. This is a unique opportunity for international students to engage in applied research on democratic politics, public opinion, and political institutions using real-world data from Israel and worldwide.

Program Overview:

Interns will work with various cross-national and Israeli datasets, including original LibRes surveys, comparative public opinion surveys (e.g., European Social Survey, Eurobarometer), and global indices (e.g., V-Dem, Freedom House). They will produce analytical reports based on independent and collaborative research.

Internship Details:

- Dates: July 7 – August 15, 2025
- Duration: a minimum of 5 weeks, 24 hours a week
- Location: Remote or on-site at Reichman University, Herzliya, Israel
- Interns who prefer an on-site program (partial or full) are responsible for all immigration arrangements, associated costs (including travel and living expenses), and health insurance.

Eligibility:

- Advanced undergraduate or MA students majoring or minoring in political science or related disciplines at a recognized university
- Language: Knowledge of Hebrew is not required, though it is an advantage
- Skills Required: Experience in quantitative data analysis (Stata, R, or Python); Familiarity with survey data and global political indices; Strong academic writing skills in English

Intern Responsibilities:

- Complete four short analytical reports (3–4 pages each) using various data sources
- Attend regular supervisory meetings (remote or in person)
- Support ongoing research at the Institute

Application:

- Application Deadline: June 6, 2025
- Decisions Announced: By June 12, 2025
- Application Materials: CV or résumé; One-page statement of interest; Transcript (official or unofficial); Short writing sample (ideally involving data analysis)
- Submit Applications to: libres@runi.ac.il
