

Yael Dovrat Bio

Yael was born in Belgium and grew up in Israel, she is married to David and mother to Daniel, Guy and Ellie. Following her military tenure in the Intelligence Corps, she pursued higher education at Tel-Aviv University, earning a B.Sc. in Industrial Engineering and Management followed by a career in the High-Tech sector. In her last position she was appointed as a Director of Product management at Kaltura and relocated to NY.

Upon returning to Israel, Yael shifted her focus to philanthropy, leading the establishment of the family's charitable endeavor, Yated Foundation, where she serves as CEO. The foundation currently focuses on two main areas: Promoting quality public policy in areas like social cohesiveness, economic growth, social mobility and institutional strength and secondly, mental health with emphasis on young adults at acute crisis. In addition to her role at the foundation, Yael serves as a board member of the Aaron Institute of Economic Policy as well as the Israel Women's Network (IWN).
